Origin of the Mazzaroth:

- Attributed to the beginning of human kind. Cassini, an early astronomer said “It is impossible to doubt that astronomy was invented from the beginning of the world; history, profane as well as sacred, testifies to this truth.” He refers to Philo for the assertion that “Terah, the father of Abraham, who lived more than a hundred years with Noah, had much studied astronomy, and taught it to Abraham, who is said by Josephus to have taught it to the Egyptians.” (Mazzaroth by Frances Rolleston)
- “The people, probably from their ancestor Noah, the same knowledge of it which Sir William Jones considers all the early nations possessed. Abraham may have added the superior science which all antiquity attributes to the Chaldeans.”
- Enoch, was a skilled in astronomy and other sciences, and that he was with Mermes Trismegistus. The Jews call him the “great scribe” and say that he was the first who composed books of astronomy. He was the first inventor of astrology, not the Egyptians.
- “Pimander,” is a work attributed to Hermes Trismegistus, who as an antediluvian (people from a time before Noah’s flood). The Zodiac is called a “tabernacle” in this work. If Pi is taken as an Egyptian article, Mander may mean by its primitive root, devoted, consecrated: a religious work.
- It is said by Achilles Tatius, that the Egyptian and Chaldean signs were the same as everywhere else, but differently named.
- In reality, “all astronomers agree that the origin of astronomy is not to be found in history.”
- The most ancient use of Zodiac is in the Hebrew scriptures (The Orbs of Heaven” – a modern astronomical work)
- Jesuit missionaries are said to have brought astronomy to China where the Chinese emperor, Yao, is there said to have divided the twelve signs by the twenty-eight Mansions of the Moon, but is not said to have invented any of them.
